*Great ideas distinguish themselves with their clarity.
So do our films.*

Not so long ago doctors, scholars or priests emphasised the complete irreproachability of their activities in the service of those entrusted to them with a special symbol:

they wore radiant white clothing. Everyone should see and feel that they always did justice to their own high standards in purity, in both means and ends.

At Südpack Medica we're not concerned with symbols. Anyone who, like us, is dedicated to the controlled and certified production of packaging for sterile medical goods, knows just how important safety is – safety that is visible.

Unique, just like the guaranteed aseptic contents of our packaging after sterilisation. And like the concept of perfect protection from all types of germs.

*Our company is very particular.
Like your demands.*

Many successful companies rely on hand-picked experts, others on unique technical expertise or ultra high-grade materials for their products.

But anyone who wants to be successful in a sector in which health care is the highest priority and in which the slightest error can lead to dangerous infections must put one goal above all these important factors:
the complete trust of customers, users and patients.

As a subsidiary of the Südpack Group – one of Europe's leading film and foil manufacturers – Südpack Medica has, over many years, created all the prerequisites for justifying the trust placed in it day after day.
We are specialised in the manufacture of medical films and packaging for sterile goods.

Whether standard or specialised products, or small, medium or large production runs – we always endeavour to offer customised complete solutions, in close cooperation with our customers.

We consider flexibility and innovation as the main strengths of Südpack Medica.

*We may not be able to live in absolute cleanliness.
But we can produce it.*

Production requirements for packaging sterile medical goods are extremely stringent: as far as possible, they should be manufactured in the same environment in which they will later be used – only in so-called cleanrooms.

With their complete sterility they guarantee maximum safety. Südpack Medica in France has state-of-the-art ISO-certified cleanrooms:

Class 100 000 or ISO 8 to ISO 14644-1 for the manufacture of bags.
Class 10 000 or ISO 7 to ISO 14644-1 for the manufacture and printing of blister lids and storage containers.

In and outside the cleanrooms, the quality of our products is subject to ongoing and stringent controls. This also applies to the raw materials used.

Südpack Medica in France holds certifications ISO 9001:2000 and NF EN 13485 (2001).

*What's the first thing needed for a good product?
A good dialogue.*

Packaging to satisfy the most stringent of safety standards often requires a highly specific procedure for its manufacture.

Intensive preliminary dialogue with our customers and joint preparation of specifications have proved invaluable, allowing us to define shape, size and material in accordance with product specifications. Together with our customers we specify which film is best suited for the purpose. This is where the expertise due to our affiliation with the Südpack Group comes into play.

It enables us to make the best possible choice from an extensive product range or to develop the appropriate individual solution.

Südpack Medica has the know-how and technology required for the entire production process and systematic supervision at all stages.

This process is independent of the quantity ordered. A certificate of conformity is issued with each delivery.

The organisation of our logistics system enables us to guarantee the shortest possible delivery periods throughout Europe.

But for us the job is not finished with delivery of the product. Anyone who, as we do, wants to ensure a constantly high level of customer satisfaction, must always be prepared to listen – even to wishes whose fulfilment presents a real innovative challenge.

That's why we are interested to hear suggestions at any time and engage in a constructive exchange of ideas.

Just who wants a completely sterile product range? Our customers!

Our customers represent a cross-section of many different industries.

What they have in common is the need for all-round protection from infectious agents or the smallest particles that, for example, could have devastating consequences if allowed to penetrate microelectronic components.

The highest possible level of purity of the original material is a prerequisite for safe packaging of cosmetic, medical and pharmaceutical products, medical devices, electronic components or even surgical drapes – and Südpack Medica's product range fulfils this requirement:

- Three sealed bags
- Tubular bags
- Peel pouches
- Techpeel® Pouches and tubes
- Blister lids for trays
- Tubular films
- Patched bags
- Roll products (top and bottom).

Due to our affiliation with the Südpack Group and our many years of experience in the market, we have access to all the necessary raw materials.
